Split Expenses

Our webpage welcomes users with its logo on the top-left corner, its name in the top-center with rest of the CD following underneath. We have a simple CD which contains all the important buttons on the homepage. These buttons are "Home" (to access homepage), "Groups" (to access all the Groups the user is member in), "Activity" (to access all the activities like expenses, settlements the user is involved in), "Account" (to access the user's account) and "Imprint" (to access the developers). Beneath these buttons, one can find two columns, the first containing buttons, "Add Expenses" (to add any expenses made in the group), "Settle" (to make settlements) and "Check Balance" (to check the amounts the user owes and the amount the user is owed). The second column provides information with respect to the button selected in the first column. In this way, we try to provide the user with option to jump among different buttons while accessing information from one button. The webpage allows users to have all the buttons as well the information selected accessible on the same page at the same time. At the bottom-right corner, user can find "Disclaimer" button, which pops up the rule and legalities concerning the webpage. We have added transitions to all the buttons using CSS.

Our logo is based on the purpose of our webpage. As our webpage's purpose is to create balance in the expenses made in a group among all the members, the logo depicts the same. It shows a beam balance with symbol of euro on both side which are being balanced.
